FAQs

What does this mean for me now?

Please be assured that these changes do not impact your current studies. You will either be able to complete the current qualification in time or transfer over and continue under the new programme.

You don't need to do anything now and if you wish to continue studying, your Programme Manager will continue to provide support throughout your studies.

When is the last assessment sitting?

The last opportunity for you to take an assessment on the current qualification is April 2021. There are no changes to the current booking deadlines or timetable for assessments. You have two further assessment sittings to complete the Stage one (AwardCMF) in February and April 2021 and one assessment sitting to pass the Stage two (CertICM) assessment in April 2021.

How should I progress with my studies?

There is no need to stop what you are doing; you should carry on studying and take your assessment(s). We strongly recommend that you aim to complete by April 2021.

What happens if I haven't completed by May 2021?

Transition information is available now, allowing you time to plan ahead. The April 2021 assessment results will be issued in May 2021, and if you have not completed at this time, you will be able to transfer over. Take a look at the transfer info here.

I have a learning license, will this change?

There is no change to your learning licence period. If you do not complete by May 2021 and need to transfer, we will give you a pathway for completing and you will not be disadvantaged.

Why are you recommending that I continue with the existing qualification?

We're encouraging you to stay and see out your original plans because you are familiar with the content and structure, and we believe that this will help you study more effectively, and make your route to qualify as smooth as possible.

Can I swap to the new qualification before May 2021?

Yes, you can. Take a look at the transfer info here.

If I complete under the existing CertICM, will the qualification still be recognised and will my designatory letters change?

The qualification will still be recognised and valued, the change is just part of our ongoing education program and syllabi review. The designatory letters associated with this certificate can continue to be used whilst your membership is valid, and will be recognised as before.

When will I hear from you next?

We will be in contact by email with reminder messages between now and April 2021. Updates will also be posted in the forum.

Who should I contact if I have a question?

If you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to get in touch.

Email us at academy@treasurers.org. Alternatively, if you would like to talk to a Programme Manager, please let us know and we would be happy to schedule a call with you.
